

Jan. 23, 2012

Jericho Alum Returns To Speak To Students

Alex Weller, a 2008 Jericho graduate and current senior at George Washington University studying Mechanical Engineering, visited the high school's Project Lead The Way: Computer Integrated Manufacturing class to speak to the students about what to expect when they go to college.

Weller spoke about his course study, what he does in class, and what he, hopefully, will do after he graduates in May. He encouraged students in Dave Herbert's class to do an internship. "Learning in the real world is so important," Weller advised. The students had the opportunity to ask him questions after class and said they enjoyed the experience.

Alex Weller speaks to Jericho students about a career in mechanical engineering.